Next Frequently Asked Questions What is the point of the Corpse Eater talent? Prev FAQ How to get origin points? This Page of the Original Divinity Sin 2 guide contains tips on how to purchase five different parts of Braccus Rex armor. We also list unique statistics bonuses earned when using items from this set. While doing Withermoore's Soul Jar you've probably noticed that there are items named after a character from the previous game - Braccus Rex. Although the game does not have an assembly mechanic (such as the Diablo series), you can find team elements that change their effects when a character is equipped with certain items. This is the case with the Braccus Rex ensemble. You can collect 5 items (although there are more of them, but you can learn about this later): The Tyrant's Stride, The Tyrant's Heart, The Helmet of the Corrupted Tyrant, The Tyrant's Hands, and The Tyrant's Footprints. Step of the tyrant Location of the tyrant stride. This item can be found within the Ancient Passage - this place is visited during Withermoore's Soul Jar mission. In the western part of the room you can find one of the two statues (presented in the image above). Select a character that has the highest Wits attribute and order it to interact with the statue. Next, you must use all dialog lines. After that you can pick up the item from the ground. Heart of the Tyrant Location of the second object, Heart of the Tyrant. The second item can be found in Madman's Enclave right after having the second fight with Trompday. The item is in the treasure - where you can find soul jars, chests and piles of gold. Helmet of the Corrupt Tyrant Braccus Rex will leave the sanctuary. Braccus Rex can be found in The Decrepit Ruins, a small location that can be accessed near the place where Gareth is saved (most dangerous mission when he is hunched). When you enter the room, simply throw Bless on the lever on the left, use it and enter another room. There, you just have to interact with Braccus Rex shrine (requires a point of origin) and after that you can collect the object from the ground. Hands of the Tyrant Th gloves from Braccus' set. The gloves are located in gargoyles' Maze Tower. The video above contains a detailed tutorial for that place. Behind the force field you can find two sarcophagus - interacting with the one on the right will make a poison to start escaping. From the same sarcophagus, you can take the hands of the tyrant. Tyrant Tracks The last, fifth element, since the set is located in the beach tower at Fort Joy. The tower can be accessed by using the Teleport ability or one of those that allow you to jump/teleport - Phoenix Dive, Cloak & Dagger, Tactical Retreat or Your Wings. When you get to the tower, you just have to search Lorenzo's body and take the object. You can see the whole process in the video above. Using armor and some interesting factsWhen equipping any of the items, you may notice that you are delighted - inflict a curse on a person who reduce your movement speed, inflict warm state, etc. However, there's an easy way to eliminate that curse - just use the 5 items you've recently purchased. Together, they offer only bonus effects and the curses are gone - until at least one of the items is removed. Braccus' cleaned helmet is a good object for a warrior. Here are some interesting facts about Braccus Rex:Spear's braccus Rex, Braccus Rex's Ring, and The Illuminator are his artifacts, but they're not part of the set - you don't need them to eliminate the effects of the curse. Braccus' helmet. The Corrupt Tyrant's Helmet offers an additional ability: Purge (formerly known as Home Vampirism). The hull has only 3 charges and when you exhaust them all an enemy, Krylr the Kettlegrinder, will jump out of it. When you defeat the enemy, you'll be able to collect a clean version of the helmet called Tyrant's Helmet. It still has a curse (inflicts Heat) but offers much better stats. Consider saving before each theft. Don't steal from NPCs that are in another NPC's field of view. Don't spend your gold on unnecessary items. Buy only the most important and valuable items. Many average items and weaker weapons can be found through exploration. Don't ignore the side missions. Completing side quests rewards you with experience points, valuable items, and improves your relationships with other NPCs.
